

First announcement of an International Conference

"New Perspectives of Legal Education in Europe"

Berlin, 18-19 March, 2010

Berlin

The goal of the international conference is to discuss recent developments in legal education in Europe. A major issue in the field of law is whether the two-cycle degree structure is suitable to accommodate the specific needs and demands of professional education and training. The conference will call for posters presenting "good examples". This will be the starting point for reflections on the experiences made in different European countries.

Target groups for the conference include teachers, professors, researchers, academics, students, representatives of European law faculties and legal associations, research organisations, national and regional ministries of justice and ministries of education, EU Commission, representatives of state and private employers, lawyers and other representatives from legal professions, firms and companies, and the interested public.

The invitation, registration forms and further information will follow in January 2010.

We kindly ask you to save the date.
